The level of our expertise is very high, due to the fifty-year experience in repairing and building ships, as well as in construction of machinery and mechanisms. In addition, the training of the company's founders and the executives plays an important role. The high level of expertise and training is constantly upgraded and modernized to meet both our own high standards and specifications and, by extension, our customers'. Solutions and continuous technical support that we provide to shipping companies have established the company as an integral part of these technical departments. The partners of Marine Solutions enjoy high quality service, express delivery and mutual trust.
